

'Oil Painting with Sensitivity'

workshop

Maryanne Wick

August 3 & 4 9:30am-4:30pm

$220 BDAS Members $260 non-members

There is no denying that oil can be an unforgiving, challenging medium but once you learn to relax and embrace it, it will embrace you. By applying a sensitive and patient approach to using oils, your technique and observational and tonal skills advance naturally, to create intuitive, honest compositions.

The course will include painting exercises, demonstrations and we'll look at and discuss the work of various artists. You will receive one on one and group tuition, together with personal feedback.

This two-day workshop invites painters of all levels. If you want to start or restart painting in oil, feel stuck in your practise, or would like a change from acrylic or watercolour painting, this course offers you the opportunity and the confidence to move forward.

Prepare to enjoy two full and focused days of painting.

Contact the BDAS administration office for more information and receive the required Materials List when you book.
